Congressman Sanley supported the president's veto in the House, holding the Webb liquor bill to be unconstitutional. He said: "I do not believe congress has the right to cut the nerves of interstate commerce. It is the cloak of the coward and the philosophy of the fool to ignore that the issue here is the constitution." He declared he was sure his action might be censured, but this would not alter his convictions.

SUFFRAGE PAGEANT

Almost Precipitated a Serious
Riot in Washington
Monday.

CAVALRY GO TO THE RESCUE

Women Had To Fight Their Way Through Jeers, Taunts
And Insults.

Washington, March 3.—Five thousand women marching in the women suffrage pageant Monday practically fought their way foot by foot up Pennsylvania avenue through a surging mob that completely defied the Washington police, swamped the marchers and broke their procession into little companies. The women trudging stoutly along under great difficulties, were able to complete their march only when troops of cavalry from Fort Meyer were rushed into Washington to take charge of Pennsylvania avenue. No inauguration has produced such scenes, which in many instances amounted to nothing less than riots.

Later in Continental hall, the women turned what was to have been a suffrage demonstration into an indignation meeting in which the Washington police were roundly denounced for their inactivity and resolutions were passed calling upon President-elect Wilson and the incoming congress to make an investigation and locate the responsibility for the indignities the marchers suffered. Miss Hellen Keller, the noted deaf and blind girl, was so exhausted and unnerved by the experience in attempting to reach a grandstand where she was to have been a guest of honor that she was unable to speak later at Continental hall.

The women cavalry first tried to ride down the mob and one woman struck a hoodlum across the face with her riding whip. The crowd was very hostile. Many of the women were in tears under the jeers and insults that lined the route.

Evangelistic Services.

The evangelistic services at the Westminster Presbyterian church, which began last Sunday night, will continue through this week and into the next following. The sermons are powerful and convincing and the membership is being strengthened spiritually. The pastor is being assisted by the Synodical Evangelist Rev. Mr. Belk, and good results are hoped for as the meetings progress. Services at 3 and 7:30 p. m. Everybody invited.

PRESIDENT WILSON FOR JUSTICE ONLY

His Inaugural Address Calls on All Honest Men to Aid in His Task.

WILL RESTORE, NOT DESTROY

New Chief Executive Says Change of Government Means the Nation is Using Democratic Patry for Large and Definite Purpose.

Washington, March 4.—Looking upon the victory of the Democratic party as the mandate of the nation to correct the evils that have been allowed to grow up in our national life, President Wilson in his inaugural address today called on all honest men to assist him in carrying out the will of the people. Following is his address:

There has been a change of government. It began two years ago, when the house of representatives became Democratic by a decisive majority. It has now been completed. The senate about to assemble will also be Democratic. The offices of president and vice-president have been put into the hands of Democrats. What does the change mean? That is the question that is uppermost in our minds today. That is the question I am going to try to answer, in order, if I may, to interpret the occasion.

New Insight Into Our Life.

It means much more than the mere success of a party. The success of a party means little except when the nation is using that party for a large and definite purpose. No one can mistake the purpose for which the nation now seeks to use the Democratic party. It seeks to use it to interpret a change in its own plans and point of view. Some old things with which we had grown familiar, and which had begun to creep into the very habit of our thought and of our lives, have altered their aspect as we have latterly looked critically upon them, with fresh, awakened eyes; have dropped their disguises and shown themselves alien and sinister. Some new things, as we look frankly upon them, willing to comprehend their real character, have come to assume the aspect of things long believed in and familiar, stuff of our own convictions. We have been refreshed by a new insight into our own life.

We see that in many things that life is very great. It is incomparably great in its material aspects, in its body of wealth, in the diversity and sweep of its energy, in the industries which have been conceived and built up by the genius of individual men and the limitless enterprise of groups of men. It is great, also, very great, in its moral force. Nowhere else in the world have noble men and women exhibited in more striking form the beauty and energy of sympathy and helpfulness and counsel in their efforts to rectify wrong, alleviate suffering, and set the weak in the way of strength and hope. We have built up, moreover, a great system of government, which has stood through a long age as in many respects a model for those who seek to set liberty upon foundations that will endure against fortuitous change, against storm and accident. Our life contains every great thing, and contains it in rich abundance.

Human Cost Not Counted.

But the evil has come with the good, and much fine gold has been corroded. With riches has come inexcusable waste. We have squandered a great part of what we might have used, and have not stopped to conserve the exceeding bounty of nature, without which our genius for enterprise would have been worthless and impotent, scorning to be careful, shamefully prodigal as well as admirably efficient. We have been proud of our industrial achievements, but we have not hitherto stopped thoughtfully enough to count the human cost, the cost of lives snuffed out, of energies overtaxed and broken, the fearful physical and spiritual cost to the men and women and children upon whom the dead weight and burden of it all has fallen pitilessly the years through. The groans and agony of it all had not yet reached our ears, the solemn, moving undertone of our life, coming up out of the mines and fac-

END OF KENTUCKIAN CONTEST DRAWING NEAR

Contestants Working Vigorously For Subscriptions This Week.

VOTE SCHEDULE GROWS LESS EACH WEEK OF CONTEST.

Now Is The Time To Prepare For The Final Count If You Want To Be One Of The Six To Win.

With the opportunity of 2,000 extra votes with each dollar paid on subscriptions between now and Saturday night, Mar. 8th, the contestants in the Kentuckian's big piano and diamond contest are working early and late. They realize that next week the vote schedule will be much less and all the workers will make this week count. This offer affords those who needs votes to get them. All you have to do is to let your friends know that you need subscriptions and subscriptions will come. Now is the time to begin to organize your friends for the finish. Don't wait till the last week, but begin now to use a little politics in organizing your forces. Your friends will secure subscriptions for you if you will ask them.

Contestants should not become discouraged. The contest manager knows of one contestant who is up among the highest who is discouraged, and feels that she has no chance to win. If she could know the real facts she would be making her best efforts now. Remember you have all to gain and nothing to lose in this contest. There will be six winners.

No one can know who will be the six ladies to come under the wire when the final count is made on Saturday night March 22. The time is growing short, and your success may depend on your efforts this week. This is the last week you will have in which to get a few five-year or ten-year subscriptions, and there is not a contestant in the contest but who can secure several long time subscriptions if she will let her friends know she wants them. You will get the votes if you work, but of course you can't expect to succeed if you become indifferent and make no effort. If you can't see all your friends in person, use the telephone and ask them to send their subscriptions either to you or to the office to your credit. Let them know that their subscriptions mean more this week than at any other time during the few remaining days of the contest. Ask every one you can see and don't take no for an answer. Work to win this week while you can secure extra votes. Don't be afraid of having to many votes. Remember that others are working for votes and are getting some.

The Webb Bill.

The Webb bill may or may not be unconstitutional. Former Federal Judge Taft and soon-to-be Prof. Taft, of the Yale law faculty, as well as the ablest lawyers in the House and Senate, believe it to be a violation of that clause of the Constitution which reserves to Congress the power to regulate commerce between the States. As lawyers they hold that the powers reserved to Congress cannot be delegated to the States. That is one view of the question. The other and the easier to act on is that the Webb bill is a popular measure. If unconstitutional, the Supreme Court will, in time, declare it so. Until then, as it imposes no penalty for its violation and is, in effect, a dead letter, and the people want it, why not let the people have it.—Louisville Times.

FISCAL COURT GOT BUSY

Made Many Orders and Allowed Claims Totalling
$389.86.

FRANCHISE IS NOT SOLD

County Attorney Directed To Take Legal Steps For Enforcement.

The Fiscal Court met in regular session last Tuesday. All the magistrates were present, Judge Knight presiding.

The various claims against the county were examined and approved. The claims aggregated only $389.86.

The first order made was that the Road Supervisor, E. W. Coleman be authorized to employ a competent engineer to ascertain the probable cost of making a fill through the water on the Palmyra road at a point commonly known as "Swallow Spring," to report at a future meeting.

During the first hour of the afternoon session County Attorney Jno. C. Duffy reported to the court that, pursuant to the direction of the court at its last meeting, he had advertised and offered for sale 1:30 o'clock, p. m., Tuesday, March 4th, a franchise for operating a telephone system in Christian county for 20 years; that he had offered the franchise at $24, which was the cost of advertising, and that no bids were made.

Thereupon the court took a vote upon the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted, to-wit:

"It now appearing to this court that the Christian-Todd Telephone Company is occupying the public roads of Christian county with its poles, wires and fixtures, and that said Telephone Company is so occupying said roads without a franchise or privilege, and it refused to buy any franchise offered for sale by this court and it is so occupying the public roads of this county without rights or authority of law, it is therefore ordered by this court that the County Attorney take all necessary legal proceedings and institute and prosecute all necessary to prevent and enjoin said Telephone Company from occupying the public roads of this county and remove its poles and wires from said roads."

Ordered: That R. F. Vaughan be allowed to proceed at once to crush sufficient stone to finish pike on Lafayette road, provided that all screenings made in crushing same are utilized and hauled out by said Vaughan, and used in constructing said pike.

Ordered: That the prisoners liable to work upon the roads of Christian county, under the supervision of W. M. Warfield, be allowed to build 300 yards more or less, on Wood's mill road to colored Fair Park.

Ordered: That the Road Supervisor and resident Magistrate of each district be a committee to advertise and receive bids for working dirt roads in their respective districts and report at the next term of court.

W. D. Martin was appointed to have rock crushed and spread upon Johnson Mill road at various places in need of repair.

Ordered: That J. M. Morris, T. H. Moore and B. F. Fuller be a committee to investigate the practicability of buying the old right of way of the L. & N. R. R. from Concord road to the Madisonville road and using same for public road.

CIRCUIT COURT IN 2D WEEK

Batch of Indictments Were Handed In Last Saturday.

TWO MURDER CHARGES MADE

Civil Cases Only Will Occupy Remainder of This Term.

Although up to yesterday at noon Circuit Court had been in session but six and a half days, Judge Hanbery had taken up cases in such rapid succession that he had almost cleaned up the docket for the ninth day.

He began work Monday on the docket for the seventh day, which contained six cases. One of these was dismissed and the others were continued.

Out of the six cases, set for trial Tuesday, two of them were dismissed, three of them left open for trial and one settled out of court.

Yesterday morning the case of James D. Fuller vs. Dolly Fuller was called up about 9 o'clock and as each side had a large number of witnesses summoned it was expected that the balance of the day would be consumed in this case before being given to the jury.

Saturday the grand jury handed in a batch of indictments. In this, as given in our last issue, were indictments against E. B. Littlepage and J. B. Hite, the first being charged with assault and the latter for unlawfully detaining a woman against her will.

The other indictments are as follows:

Claf Wells, of North Christian, was indicted for unlawfully detaining Mrs. May Johnson, who lives in Wells' neighborhood.

Indictments against Minus Blank, five in number, were handed in, charging him with obtaining money under false pretenses by receiving money on checks on the Bank of Cerulean. Five merchants cashed Blanks' checks, the amounts ranging from $2 to $5.

Chas. Miner was indicted for murder. It is claimed that he shot Charles Gilmore near Gracey.

Horace Springfield was indicted for killing Will Jones.

Other indictments are: John Mumford, shooting and wounding with intent to kill.

Hugh Greenwade, mule stealing.

Dock Hill, grand larceny.

O'Neal Sharp, breaking into a dwelling.

STOLE THE ARMY'S MOUNTS

Horse Thieves That Annoyed General Buell at Fort Griffin Pursued and Slain.

Like every other frontier army post or civilian settlement, Fort Griffin had troubles of its own, says Denver Field and Farm. In 1870 horse stealing had become such a business as to be numbered among the infant industries. Old General Buell was in command there at the time and vowed vengeance on the satellites of the saddle who were prowling around nights and running off the government stock. The black soldiers of the Tenth cavalry always voted themselves smart enough to guard Uncle Sam's property through the lonesome vigils of the night, but they could not outwit the horse thieves, and the stealing went right on.

The meanest gang in the country was that of Lloyd and Gresham, for they did a wholesale business every time they came around. Finally they got away with over a hundred head of cavalry mounts one night when the cavallard was grazing outside under a negro guard. The following morning Lieutenant Hunter and a company of the buffalo troops took the trail and Buell's last word was to bring back the stock or keep away altogether. Eight miles west of Fort Griffin they came in the night to the Canyon Blanco and espied the thieves asleep in their blankets.

At the peep of day the charge was made and every last one of the gang, nine of them in all, were shot dead as they slumbered peacefully on, and their bodies were left to feed the prowling coyotes and the carrion buzzards. For these riders of the plains were the men "that God made mad, for all their words were merry and all their songs were sad." Life was a little too short in those days to stop and bury horse thieves and their bones lie bleaching there today in the happy Texas sunlight.

WHY BIOSCOPE FAILED TO DRAW.

An amusing story comes from one of the remote villages in Bengal. Recently an enterprising showman took a bioscope to the village. The first performance drew a crowded house, but to the surprise of the entertainer the show received no further patronage from the villagers. On making inquiries he was still more surprised to discover that he was regarded as a lieutenant of the evil one and that fond mothers were keeping away their children from the show, believing that one who was capable of making lifeless things look like real ones was no fit person to be an entertainer even.

CANNOT SELL QUAIL

Even Though It Was Killed in Another State and Shipped Into Kentucky.

Judge Charles Kerr, in the Circuit Court at Lexington, decided it was unlawful to offer for sale in Kentucky quail and other game during the closed season, even though the game had been killed in and shipped from another State where its slaughter was not prohibited. This is the first time since the new game law went into effect in Kentucky that this question has been decided by a Circuit Court, and Judge Kerr's decision is a signal victory for the State Game Warden and Kentucky sportsmen generally, who have complained that permission to sell game shipped from other States made it impossible effectively to protect the game in Kentucky.

The case before Judge Kerr was that of the State against the Phoenix Hotel Company, which was charged with thirty counts with having quail in its possession between January 1 and November 15, which is the closed season in this State.

TO DEAL DEATH IN SILENCE

Military Men Seek Devices That Will Do Away with the Noise Now
Made by Aeroplanes.

Noise of battle has always been considered an indispensable part of warfare. It is, however, a thing unnecessary and undesirable. The efficiency of a gunpowder weapon is measured by its killing capacity. The more noise it makes the fewer it kills. The booming battery is like the rattlesnake.
Audibly it warns of its presence. The snake that lies low and strikes silently claims the most victims. The Maxim silencer is intended to make guns less noisy and more useful in their specific field of activity. The quite noiseless gun would be more desirable than the wholly noiseless powder from the standpoint of the warrior. Now comes the complaint that the military aeroplane is deprived of much of its usefulness because of the tremendous noise of its whirling propellers. At night, when the flyers dart about above the darkened camps, their presence is advertised to the ear. In daylight they have to fly high to dodge bullets, at night they must swoop down low enough to gain accurate information were it not for the inevitable noise. Therefore the inventors are striving to develop a noiseless aeroplane. If noise-lessness is desirable in warfare how much more is it to be sought in humdrum times of peace? The business of war is to destroy life, and noise is a handicap. The business of peace is to prolong life, and to make life happy, and noise is a still greater handicap. Cities are becoming saner. They are, by ordinance, putting the muffler on some kinds of utterly senseless clamor. But there remain many cacoph-onies that might easily be eliminated. Anti-noise societies should find cheer and comfort in the fact that even war is falling in line for their reform. War would seem to be the final stronghold of noise, and silent battles
the last dream of the optimist.

DANGEROUS ONLY IN PANIC

Hippopotami Will Not Attack Man
Unless Impelled by Unreasoning and Blind Fear.

The hippopotamus which attacked
Sir John Kirk and Livingstone was, no doubt, a "bachelor." Speaking of the hippopotami of the Chobe, Livingstone says that, "as certain elderly males are expelled from the herd,
they become soured in their temper,
and so misanthropic as to attack
every canoe that comes near them.
The herd is never dangerous except when a canoe passes into the midst of it when all are asleep, and some of them may strike the canoe in terror.
As a rule, these animals flee the approach of man. The "solitaires," however, frequent certain localities well known to the inhabitants on the banks, and, like the rogue elephants, are extremely dangerous." Livingstone learnt that, when attacked by one, you should dive to the bottom and keep there a few seconds, since the hippo soon moves off if he finds nobody on the surface.

Odd Greek Superstition.

The belief, illustrated in the ballad of The Bridge of Arta, that a human victim is required to insure the stability of a bridge or building survives in Greece today, J. A. Lawson says.

There is no murder now. It suffices to obtain, preferably from an enemy or an old person, a hair, nail paring, shred of clothing, old shoe or a thread or stick marked with the person's height or footprint measure, and bury these beneath the foundation stone.
The victim dies within a year, but the building is safe.

Even a shadow will do. Mr. Lawson was himself dragged back by a friend in Santorini so that his shadow might not fall across such a fatal spot; and the mayor of Agrinian told him that his four predecessors had all died from letting their shadows fall on foundation stones laid by them.

Gentle Reprimand.

As a young woman attired in a neat blue suit entered a street car a man his head buried in a newspaper, arose and offered his seat. With a curt nod the young woman accepted, and as soon as she had composed herself she became interested in the contents of her shopping bag. In spite of his apparent abstraction, the man with the newspaper watched her for a moment.
Then, speaking hurriedly, he said:

"I beg your pardon, what is it—
what did you say?"

The young woman lifted her eyes,
and, seeing that she was addressed,
answered coolly: "I said nothing, sir."

"Beg pardon, beg pardon," was the absent-minded answer. "I thought you said 'Thank you.'—Milwaukee Free

Life Under Pressure.

The bed of the Arctic seas is very fine and plastic, while in the other zones of the Atlantic the bed is covered with reddish mud and an accumulation of the remains of animals that lived in the surface waters, died and slowly sank.

The pressure of these increases about one atmosphere to nearly every 33 feet, so every additional 330 feet adds the pressure of ten atmospheres.
When deep-sea fishes are brought to the surface they lose their scales, their teguments become brittle, and they are so inflated by internal distension caused by the lessened pressure that in many cases they burst asunder.

SHYLOCK IN SLUMS

How Poor of British Cities Are Continually Made Poorer.

Most of the Money Lenders Are Women Who Often Exact Nine Hundred Per Cent—Big Fees
for Small Loans.

Nine hundred per cent! Incredible! Yet that is about the rate of interest which was paid by a poor woman in Bermondsey, who lately poisoned herself by drinking oxalic acid, a writer in London Tit-Bits states. She had borrowed the sum of 14s and had contracted to pay interest at the rate of one penny in the shilling per week! That is to say, she had undertaken to pay 1s 2d for the loan of 14s for one week. As the coroner said, that rate of interest
"seems excessive."

Going to Bermondsey recently, the writer called on the Rev. H. Williams of St. John's Horsleydown, who has studied the problem of money lending closely and then discovered that the shylocks of the slums do not confine their operations to Bermondsey; they exist all over the country and are as troublesome in Liverpool and Greenock as they are in London. They are not money lenders in the sense in which the late Isaac Gordon was a money lender; they do not rent offices, nor do they advertise themselves as financiers willing to accommodate necessitous persons "on note of hand only" with loans ranging from £5 to £5,000, nor do they circularize schoolboys, undergraduates and clergymen, as is the habit of the shylocks of the middle classes. Most of them, in fact, are unregistered, and therefore, if detected in money lending transactions, are liable to heavy fines.
The license costs £10, and the shylock of the slum is not sufficiently supplied with capital to be able to waste money on licenses when it can be more profitably employed.

The bulk of these slum money lenders are women. As a rule, they are of the class to which their clients belong. In one case the money lender was a woman so poor that in order to obtain capital she pawned her clothes. There was a streak of financial genius in this woman, for she was able to obtain money from a pawnbroker at the rate of a farthing in the shilling; she lent it to her clients at the rate of twopence in the shilling. In Bermondsey the rate of interest charged by these money lenders is generally a penny in the shilling; in Liverpool it is frequently twopence. But in practice the rate in Bermondsey is often twopence. This is due to the fact that Saturday, the day on which repayment is generally made, is always treated as the beginning of another week. For example, if a client borrows 5 shillings on Thursday afternoon and repays that sum on the following Saturday she is said to have had the loan for two weeks. The amount of interest due from her, therefore, is tenpence! As we are usually paid on Saturday, it is clearly impossible for a woman in urgent need of money on Thursday to repay the borrowed sum on Friday, when fivepence interest is due.

If the borrower wishes to retain the principal for an additional week, she is allowed to do so at double rates of interest. Thus a woman borrowing 5s on the Thursday of one week and repaying it on the Saturday of the next week owes interest for three weeks,
although she has only had the money,
in fact, for nine days, and the amount of interest due from her is 2s 1d.

In some places, notably in Liverpool, the money lender expects the borrower, even if the amount of the loan is only a shilling, to spend a portion of it in buying fish, steak and other edibles or beer. The charges made for these goods are heavy, usually two or three times their value. One money lender used to sell bedding and furniture to her clients, lending the money to them to pay for
it. She and other money lenders have carried the work of the "tally man" beyond the usual practice, and appear, in consequence, to have made it more profitable.

It may be asked: "How can these unregistered, and therefore illegal, money lenders make their business pay, in view of the high rate of interest charged, and also of the fact that they do not obtain security for their loans?" Strange as it may seem, their losses through defaulting clients are very few. The sums lent are generally small, seldom more than £1 and usually under 10s. The loan is, in most cases, contracted by a woman without the knowledge of her husband. This fact gives the money lender a hold over the borrower, and the supposititious question stated above
may be answered thus: "By methods of bluff and terrorism."

The borrowers do not know that an unregistered money lender is subject to a heavy fine, but even if they were aware of this fact they would probably hesitate a long while before repudiating loans or defaulting in payments. Usually a threat to "county court" the borrower, or to inform her husband, is effectual; but in the case of the obstinate sterner methods are adopted. The defaulting borrower may suddenly find that her moral character is being assailed, but she is more likely to find herself assailed on the first suitable occasion. Or she may find that her furniture has been smashed during her absence from home.

Chinamen Disappointed Because Friend Was Not to Be Council-

Senator Kirtland I. Perky, appointed to succeed the late Senator Heyburn of Idaho, studied law in the office of Mr. Bill Bryan at Lincoln back in the days when Bryan was entirely unknown and half of his mail came addressed as O'Brien.

Perky is an agreeable, compact man with a large head covered with a heavy black mane. He looks too stoutish for any exercise more strenuous than brushing his teeth of a morning—or croquet at the outside, but the funny thing about it is that he can play a whirlwind game of lawn tennis, and can step right out on short notice and kick as high as his head.

When it was announced that Perky had been appointed senator, a Chinaman he knows well out in Boise, stopped him to offer "congratulations."

"You make fine councilman," said
the Chink.

"But it's a senator I'm to be," explained Perky; "down at Washington, you know."

"Oh," says the Chink, in a disappointed tone, "that all; me thought you to be city councilman."

PROOF THAT WORM CAN THINK

Experiment Made by Harvard College Professor Interesting, if Not of Great Importance.

From a series of experiments conducted by Professor Yerkes of the psychological department of Harvard college, the professor has become convinced that an angworm can think.

Knowing that an angworm will always crawl out of a lighted place into a dark one, the professor put the worm, which he was experimenting on, into a glass dish in which were two dark holes. The right-hand hole was merely a regular earth cavity.
The left-hand one, however, contained a mildly charged electric battery, the object of which is to give the worm a shock in case it should desire to poke itself into it.

At last reports the worm had learned its lesson pretty well and was continually going to the right when it was put into the glass dish.

A series of similar experiments, including mice, guinea pigs and so forth, is said to be contemplated by the psychology department.

PAINE AND JUNIUS.

It has never been clearly demonstrated that Thomas Paine was the author of the "Letters of Junius," "Junius Unmasked," published in Washington by John Gray & Co., 1872, is a most plausible book, but it stops far short of the point for which its author set out, which was to prove that Paine wrote the celebrated letters. In all probability Junius will never be unmasked. The keenest intellects of the period in which the letters appeared tried their utmost to discover the author of the extraordinary epistles and tried in vain. We have the letters, and they are, of their kind, the choicest productions of the human mind, but to whom belongs the honor of having produced them is still one of the mysteries.

THE ABSENTEES.

devoted they are to each other! That is my ideal of the married state."

"Well, it may be your ideal, but since I happen to know the couple you refer to I can't help wondering where her husband is and where his wife is."

torious and out of every home where the struggle had its intimate and familiar seat. With the great government went many deep secret things which we too long delayed to look into and scrutinize with candid, fearless eyes. The great government we loved has too often been made use of for private and selfish purposes, and those who used it had forgotten the people.

At last a vision has been vouchsafed us of our life as a whole. We see the bad with the good, the debased and decadent with the sound and vital. With this vision we approach new affairs. Our duty is to cleanse, to reconquer, to restore, to correct the evil without impairing the good, to purify and humanize every process of our common life without weakening or sentimentalizing it. There has been something crude and heartless and unfeeling in our haste to succeed and to great. Our thought has been 'Let every man look out for himself, let every generation look out for itself,' while we reared giant machinery which made it impossible that any but those who stood at the levers of control should have a chance to look out for themselves. We had not forgotten our morals. We remembered well enough that we had set up a policy which was meant to serve the humblest as well as the most powerful, with an eye single to the standards of justice and fair play, and remembered it with pride. But we were very heedless and in a hurry to be great.

Chief Items in Program.

We have come now to the sober second thought. The scales of heedlessness have fallen from our eyes. We have made up our minds to square every process of our national life again with the standards we so proudly set up at the beginning and have always carried at our hearts. Our work is a work of restoration.

We have itemized with some degree of particularity the things that ought to be altered and here are some of the chief items: A tariff which cuts us off from our proper part in the commerce of the world, violates the just principles of taxation, and makes the government a facile instrument in the hands of private interests; a banking and currency system based upon the necessity of the government to sell its bonds fifty years ago and perfectly adapted to concentrating cash and restricting credits; an industrial system which, take it on all its sides, financial as well as administrative, holds capital in leading strings, restricts the liberties and limits the opportunities of labor, and exploits without renewing or conserving the natural resources of the country; a body of agricultural activities never yet given the efficiency of great business undertakings or served as it should be through the instrumentality of science taken directly to the farm, or afforded the facilities of credit best suited to its practical needs; water courses undeveloped, waste places unreclaimed, forests untended, fast disappearing without plan or prospect of renewal, unregarded waste heaps at every mine. We have studied as perhaps no other nation has the most effective means of production, but we have not studied cost or economy as we should either as organizers of industry, as statesmen, or as individuals.

Matters of Justice.

Nor have we studied and perfected the means by which government may be put at the service of humanity, in safeguarding the health of the nation, the health of its men and its women and its children, as well as their rights in the struggle for existence. This is no sentimental duty. The firm basis of government is justice, not pity. These are matters of justice. There can be no equality or opportunity, the first essential of justice in the body politic, if men and women and children be not shielded in their lives, their very vitality, from the consequences of great industrial and social processes which they cannot alter, control or singly cope with. Society must see to it that it does not itself crush or weaken or damage its own constituent parts. The first duty of law is to keep sound the society it serves. Sanitary laws, pure food laws, and laws determining conditions of labor which individuals are powerless to determine for themselves are intimate parts of the very business of justice and legal efficiency.

These are some of the things we ought to do, and not leave the others undone, the old-fashioned, never-to-be-neglected, fundamental safeguarding of property and of individual right. This is the high enterprise of the new day; to lift everything that concerns our life as a nation to the light that shines from the hearthfire of every man's conscience and vision of the right. It is inconceivable that we should do this as partisans; it is inconceivable we should do it in ignorance of the facts as they are or in blind haste. We shall restore, not destroy. We shall deal with our economic system as it is and as it may be modified, not as it might be if we had a clean sheet of paper to write upon; and step by step we shall make it what it should be, in the spirit of those who question their own wisdom and seek counsel and knowledge, not shallow self-satisfaction or the excitement of excursions whither they cannot tell. Justice, and only justice, shall always be our motto.

Task Not One of Politics.

And yet it will be no cool process of mere science. The nation has been deeply stirred, stirred by a solemn passion, stirred by the knowledge of wrong, of ideals lost, of government too often debauched and made an instrument of evil. The feelings with which we face this new age of right and opportunity sweep across our heart-strings like some air out of God's own presence, where justice and mercy are reconciled and the judge and the brother are one. We know our task to be no mere task of politics, but a task which shall search us through and through, whether we be able to understand our time and the need of our people, whether we be indeed their spokesmen and interpreters, whether we have the pure heart to comprehend and the rectified will to choose our high course of action.

This is not a day of triumph; it is a day of dedication. Here muster, not the forces of party, but the forces of humanity. Men's hearts wait upon us; men's lives hang in the balance; men's hopes call upon us to say what we will do. Who shall live up to the great trust? Who dares fail to try? I summon all honest men, all patriotic, all forward-looking men, to my side. God helping me, I will not fail them, if they will but counsel and sustain me!

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever; also cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

WORLD OWES DEBT TO WOMAN

Fostering of Agriculture Has Been From the Beginning of Time in Female Hands.

Agriculture today depends chiefly upon the work of the primeval woman. We are indebted to the nomad's wife for the greatest of all economic services. She tamed the young of the more tamable animals, gave them to her savage husband, and made of him the more civil herdsmen who for ages followed his flocks after the manner of Jacob and Lot and Job. This fertile wife of the nomad became the wife of farmers, and she made a farmer of her son by placing in his hand the precious seed of the grains, the present basis of agriculture, the bread of man, and the concentrated food of all our domestic animals.

Where did this ancient mother get these precious seeds? In many cases we do not know, and cannot even guess. She found some plant with one or two rich seeds, planted them, and then generation after generation her descendants picked over their little grain patches, selecting seeds to be precious preserved from the harvest festival to the next spring planting festival, which we now call Easter. By this process running on through unknown generations of men, the plants became so changed by the artificial application of Darwin's law of selection that now no botanist dares suggest what plant or plants were the wild forebears of some of the present grains from which the world today obtains its bread.

We are indebted to this cave or tent dwelling woman. But shall we accept her work as final? Can science do no better than follow along the path she laid out? The fact that agricultural science is today doing little more than this is one of the pathetic illustrations of the smallness of our view.—Prof. J. Russell Smith, in Harper's Magazine.

IN HOUSES OF CORNSTALK

Primitive Dwelling Places That Are Occupied by the Poorest Class of Egyptian Peasants.

On the outskirts of Alexandria we passed numerous groups of Bedouins, camping by the side of the Mahmoudieh canal. Out in the fields men and women, dressed alike in the loose cotton gown of the country, were busily at work. The fields were dotted with curious doorless structures made of cornstalks. They are used as temporary homes at certain seasons of the year, as, for instance, when the crops are being gathered.

Later on I entered one, and found it to be not more than five feet square; one could not stand upright inside. The place contained nothing but a few jars and cooking utensils. In the winter the occupants wrap themselves up in their clothes at night, covering the heads also, but leaving the feet bare. The hut I saw was occupied by a man and his son. These people, of course, are the fellahen—the peasants—the pure Egyptian of the poorest class.—Christian Herald.

13,000 Miles of Silver.

The greatest money count in the history of the United States is now on. Every piece of money in the country's billion-hulging treasury must be handled and each security fingered. A corps of men—the most expert money counters in the world—will work at the task day and night, but it will take them sixty days to finish it. There are 156,708,960 silver dollars alone in this vast sum. Much of the coin counting is done by weighing, but there is an ingenious machine which digests silver dollars, quarters and halves and counts them as fast as a man can turn the handle. If the silver dollars were stacked one on top of another, they would tower 835 miles high. If they could be laid in a continuous line, each touching the other, the silver horde would stretch out for a distance of 13,000 miles.—Robert D. Heintz in Leslie's.

Egyptian Justice.

In ancient Egypt all court business was carried on in writing, in order that the decision might not be influenced by oratory or personal appeal. The laws lay before the judges upon a table, and the accuser declared in writing how he had been injured, whereupon the defendant stated in writing what he had to say. Then came a rejoinder from each party to the case, after which the judges deliberated among themselves until they had hit upon the proper legal penalty for the party who had in the meantime been adjudged guilty. This point being reached the president of the judges touched with an image of Thmet, the "Goddess of Truth," the manuscript of the guilty pleader and the case was over.

The President.

The president of the United States has nothing whatever to do with the making of the laws of the individual states or of the United States. He is purely and simply the national executive, his business being to carry out the laws that are made by the congress. In order to be able to make laws the president would need to be an absolute monarch, like the czar of Russia or the Sultan of Turkey. As it is, he is simply the head servant of the people, with his duties clearly laid down in the constitution, and from which he cannot deviate. Instead of making the laws the laws are made by the legislative servants of the people for him to execute.

CONFEDERATE VETERANS

Met Saturday and Arranged to Go to Chattanooga.

Pursuant to the call of Commander Chas. F. Jarrett, Ned Meriwether Camp, Confederate Veterans, met last Saturday.

Several items of business were brought up for action. One of them was to make arrangements to attend the national encampment at Chattanooga, May 27-28-29. The L. & N. railroad was chosen to transport the members of the camp. Those who are not members of the camp will have the privilege of the railroad rate agreed upon by the railroad company and the camp.

The passenger agent was not able to give the minimum rate, but assures the camp that it will not be more than $4.50 or $5.

Those going can take either of the three trains from Hopkinsville, the members of the camp will most probably leave here on the 7 o'clock morning train and will arrive at Chattanooga at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, thus having plenty of time before night to find their quarters and settle down.

A committee was appointed to solicit subscriptions for a fund to be applied to paying the expenses of old Confederates who are not financially able to do so themselves. Mr. E. D. Jones is chairman of the committee.

When the time came for the election of officers Mr. C. F. Jarrett was re-elected as Commander. Mr. Jarrett has been Commander since the organization of the camp. Hon. Hunter Wood, Sr., was re-elected Adjutant. The other officers were re-elected, as follows:

J. C. Adcock, 1st lieutenant.
W. H. Jesup, 2nd lieutenant.
John R. Dickerson, 3rd lieutenant.
E. W. Walker, 4th lieutenant.

STANLEY WANTS PLACE

And May Get It On Important Committee.

Washington March 4.—Incoming members-elect of the new House waited on Representative A. O. Stanley in numbers Monday and informed him they will support him for a position on the new Committee on Ways and Means. The Kentucky delegation, led by Senator elect James, has been in charge of Mr. Stanley's fight for the assignment, and they believe it is won. The contest is close and difficult, however, against Representative Saunders, of Virginia, and Covington, of Maryland, each of whom seeks the same vacancy which exists because of elevation of Representative James to the Senate. The caucus will be held on March 5.

Kentucky Naval Academy Candidate Successful.

Baltimore, March 3.—Out of a total of 135 candidates who took the recent mental examination for admission into the Naval Academy as midshipmen, only seventy-one, or 52 per cent., were successful. The list of those who passed was announced at the academy in Annapolis Saturday. The examinations which were completed two weeks ago, were conducted under civil service regulations at the various stations throughout the county. All of these candidates will now be examined as to their physical qualifications, and if they pass will be admitted as midshipmen. Among those who passed the mental test from Kentucky was A. Harrison, of the Sixth congressional district.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the announcement of Thomas S. Winfree for the Democratic nomination for Constable in the second magisterial district. Mr. Winfree is so well known that it is scarcely necessary to say anything of his fitness for the office. He is now serving his sixth year as constable and no one will say that he has not made a good officer. His record as an officer of the law and his faithfulness as a collector will be a tower of strength in his effort to secure the office for another term.

MANY HOOKWORM VICTIMS

Over 400 Found to Be Afflicted With Malady in Berea.

Barbourville, Ky., March 5.—Dr. J. S. Lock, who is investigating the hookworm parasite in Berea, reports that of the 2147 examined, 425 were found to be afflicted with hookworm disease in various stages, 457 with roundworm, 223 with whipworm and thirty-seven with dwarf tapeworm.

Late Monday night the Senate ended the long struggle over Taft appointments by confirming the promotions of Cole, Devol, Parker and Liggett to the rank of Brigadier General. Fourteen hundred vacancies are left to President Wilson to fill.

U. S. INSPECTOR

Coming This Month to Examine Dairy Cattle.

Seven dairymen furnish by far the greater part of milk used in Hopkinsville. John M. Morris having 55 cows; W. L. Gore 24; M. K. Anderson 16; Samuel Morris 16; Riley Adkins 12; St. Claire Leavell 10; J. E. Cliborne 15; making a total of 148 cows. The others are estimated but cannot be far from correct. The Asylum is using 92 cows.

The above figures may not be interesting at a glance, but when the question arises as to whether the milk sold to consumers comes from cows that are entirely healthy or not—whether the milk used in the homes is impregnated with tuberculosis germs or not—then everybody is interested.

We do not make the statement that any of our dairymen are using cows that are unhealthy because we do not believe they are, or would do such a thing if they knew it. But in these days when almost the entire world is fighting the white plague too many precautions cannot be adopted in fighting humanity's greatest foe. Our dairymen will agree with us on this.

Squire John M. Morris received notice a few days since that a United States inspector will be here during this month to examine all cows furnishing milk for the public.

This officer has been to several cities in the state. At Paducah on one dairy farm he found that out of 36 cows used 22 were unhealthy. Of course they were condemned.

CORN CONTESTS

Have Largely Increased the Yield in Kentucky.

No one would imagine that the boy's corn contests in many counties would really increase the yield noticeable in Kentucky last year. The contests were considered a fad with the youth of Kentucky more than anything else. Their parents humored the boys and the "kids" taught the "old-timers" a lesson in industry, if not in cultivation.

We give below the figures given by Commissioner of Agriculture Newman, taken from a bulletin sent him by the Department of Agriculture, Washington, which shows an increase of $1,224,000 in 1912 over the value of the crop in 1911. Hurrah for the boys of Kentucky! Let them do better this year.

Here are figures from Washington: The acreage planted during 1912 was 2,600,000 which was the same as in 1911. The average yield was 30.4 as against twenty-six bushels to the acre for the preceding year. The value of the 1912 crop was $60,192,000 on 109,440,000 bushels as against $53,963,000 on 93,600,000 bushels for the preceding year.

VERY IMPORTANT ROOM

KITCHEN DESERVES ATTENTION BEFORE ANYTHING ELSE.

If Necessary to Stint, Let It Be Any where But There—Too Frequently Most Unsanitary Corner of the House.

A writer on hygiene has said that "the modern kitchen is a refinery, a laboratory and disinfection station and a factory."

If so, it is important to run it on hygienic lines; in many homes it is the unsanitary corner of the house.

With the kitchenette habit less and less attention is paid to sunlight; instead of being the cheeriest room in the house, the kitchen is often the darkest and worst ventilated.

While it is not always possible to get the ideal kitchen, the woman who rents a house should see that it is not shaded by balconies, that the range is not in some dark alcove where light and air never reach, and that the sink has proper drainage and is free from backboards where grease can lodge.

In building a house stint on wood-work and furnishings rather than on the kitchen. It should be built with at least two windows, preferably so there may be a cross draught, and a third small window above the range to give light and let odors escape.

Rounded corners, paneled walls and tiled floors make ideal furnishings for a kitchen, as dust and germs have fewer lurking places. If that is beyond one's means, have a hard plaster wall and flush with wide, tight-fitting baseboard, and give all a coat of light-colored paint once a year. Have the paint enameled, so it may be washed frequently. A hardwood floor is nearly as costly as a tiled one, so the average householder must fall back on linoleum. It pays to get the best quality.

Do not stint on your sink. Delay building if you must put in a wood and zinc abomination, which breeds all sorts of germs. Next best is porcelain-lined with tile backing, but even cast-iron is better than wood.

The sanitary sink is open all around to light and air, has a continuous tiled backing, with no crevices for dirt, and the waste pipes must run separate from the soil pipes clear to the house drain. At the right side have a draining board, and another at the left, even if it must be hinged for lack of space.

Above the backboard of the sink have a shelf or rod full of hooks and a bit higher build in a closet a little wider than the sink and six inches deep. Here can be stored disinfectants, polishing materials, cloths, vegetable brushes, all the things so important to a germ-free kitchen, yet often neglected because they are not "handy."

Utilize the wall space near the range with shelves and hooks, where can be stored some of the pots, pans, ladles and seasonings always needed in cooking. If there is a corner for a hanging clock there will be less guessing in cooking. Also have a nail where "lifters" may be fastened by an elastic hanger—it is a big saving on tea towels.

Every woman should insist upon supervising the kitchen closet or dresser. In a small room space is saved by putting this in a corner. It may have a flat table surface, with shelves above reaching to the ceiling and below zinc-lined bins to hold sugar and flour at each side. Between the bins, which should be quite narrow and open like a drawer, have a closet for pots and pans.

Filled Cookies.

One cup sugar, one-half cup butter and milk, one egg, three and a half cups flour, two teaspoons cream of tartar, one teaspoon each of soda and vanilla and more flour if needed. Put cookies in a pan, put one teaspoon of filling on each, not letting it come to the edge. Then put another cookie on top. Bake in quick oven, taking care not to scorch, as it takes longer to bake than single cookies. Filling—One-half cup each of sugar and water, one teaspoon flour and one cup chopped raisins, figs or dates, or a portion of each. Cook until thick; stir to prevent burning. This filling is nice for layer cakes also. These cookies are very nice—most favorite among children.

Cleaning Velvet.

Stretch the velvet tautly, pile side upward, over a basin of boiling water. As the steam rises through the velvet get a second person to brush up the pile briskly with a stiff whisk. If the material is really dirty and not merely crumpled and flattened, sponge it lightly with benzine, taking care that there is no artificial light or fire in the room in which the operation is performed, and also that there is no draught leading to an apartment containing heat or light of any kind.

German Potato Pancakes.

Take four or five large, raw potatoes and grate them. If very watery, dip some off. Use one or two eggs, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon salt. Mix together and fry like other cakes, but use plenty of lard. Very fine for lunch.

Corn Ragout.

Cut scraps of ham or bacon in small squares; fry brown, add six ripe tomatoes, peeled and sliced, and the grains cut from six ears of corn. Cover with boiling water, season with red pepper and salt, and cook slowly one-half hour. Serve hot with toasted bread.

EASY TO DECORATE TABLE

Keep in Mind Only That Adornments Must Not Be Overdone, and Appropriate.

It is not necessary to have one's table decorated by a professional if the amateur will remember a few salient rules of table decoration.

Do not have clashing colors. They jar on the eye like a "calitumpian" serenade on the ear. To promote this harmony take into consideration the color of the room and of one's principal china; likewise, unless your complexion is of the best, of your own looks.

A one-color scheme is always safe, but should have a background of green in foliage or trailing vine. In combination do not try to be bizarre, and remember that all shades of the same color will not harmonize. Pink and lavender are charming together, and far less commonplace than blue or pink. Dark blue and purple and pale yellow are effective; so, oddly enough, are orange and scarlet, or scarlet sage and goldenrod.

Further consider the season of the year. A vivid decoration that would look well in the fall or winter would be ugly in hot weather. Likewise consider your color scheme for the lighting standpoint—natural or artificial.

CARE IN WASHING STOCKINGS

Simple Precautions That Add to Life of Goods and the Comfort of Those Who Wear Them.

In washing stockings the first essential is to have absolutely clean soap solution in tepid water. It is poor policy to take in the rinsing water left after the white clothes are out, for that leaves the stockings covered with specks of white lint. Put the stockings in right side out, rub well, and repeat the rubbing on the wrong side. If the color is at all delicate, rub the feet first and then the legs in order not to have the latter long in the water.

Rinse well in water of the same temperature, wring dry, and hang from the tops of the stockings so that if water settles, leaving a little discoloration, it will be in the toes instead of in the leg. The most of the black stockings now are fast colors and give no trouble.

If colored stockings show signs of running or fading, the color may be set with alum or salt water, only one should bear in mind that alum will set the dirt as well as the color.

Silk stockings need to be washed well, then rinsed in lukewarm water, then pressed between towels.

Partridge, Cooked Hunter's Style.

Use the young birds for broiling or roasting and the older ones for stewing purposes. Cut them up as you would chicken. Season well with salt and pepper and place in a stewing pan with two ounces of butter. Brown on all sides for about three minutes, then add finely minced onion and carrot and two sprigs each of parsley and thyme and one bay leaf minced fine. Let these brown and add a tablespoonful of flour. Let this brown nicely and add three chopped tomatoes and their juice. Cover and simmer about five minutes and then add half a glass of sherry or madeira wine and one cup of water or consommé. Cover closely and let all cook fifteen minutes. Serve very hot with toasted bread triangles for a garnish.

Baked Halibut.

Cut about two pounds of halibut into pieces two inches square, clean and wipe dry and put in a dish with four wineglasses of sherry wine, turning them from time to time and let remain in the wine two hours. Then put the pieces of fish into a baking pan, moisten well with melted butter, sprinkle lightly with bread crumbs and let bake until done and nicely browned. Take up the fish and pour into pan in which it was baked half a pint of cream. Heat on top of stove, thicken with a little flour, garnished with parsley. Or if preferred melt a little more butter in pan, add a little lemon juice to it and pour over fish. If the wine is not objectionable you will find this delicious and half the portion sufficient for two.

Pillow Squares.

One can get beautiful silk velvet and tapestry squares appropriate for sofa-pillow covers in the big wholesale and retail upholstery shops. There are lovely ones from a dollar up, ends of pieces that they are glad to dispose of at greatly reduced prices. They would make very acceptable gifts if the colors are carefully selected.—Harper's Bazar.

To Clean Marble.

When marble is discolored by grease or any stain, mix two parts of common washing soda with one part of chalk and one of ground pumice stone. Have all finely powdered and mix into a paste with water. Rub it well over the marble and a few hours later wash off with plain soap and water.

Hasty Indian Pudding.

Four cups corn flakes ½ cup molasses, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon ginger, 2 large cups milk, 1 egg, a little nutmeg; dot top with butter and bake till set and a little brown, like custard. To be eaten with hard sauce or cream.

Bird's Nest Salad.

Color cream cheese a light green with pistachio coloring; roll into balls the size of bird's eggs, arrange on lettuce leaves and serve with mayonnaise.

IRA D. SMITH.

Announces Himself a Candidate for County Attorney.

Ira D. Smith, one of the young Democrats of the city, announces himself today as a candidate for the office of County Attorney. If the Democrats want to inject some new blood into the list of offices to be filled at the approaching election, they could not choose a better young man than Mr. Smith. He is a Democrat and a member of the Hopkinsville bar. He is a Democrat because he believes in the principles of the party, and before fitting himself for the practice of law he took a part in the efforts to overcome the Republican party in the county. He has the energy of youth, the clear-sightedness of a student and the qualities of a gentleman to offer to the Democratic party.

MAY REORGANIZE

Beginning July 1st, Unless Congress Interferes.

Washington, March 4.—Unless Congress interferes the organization of the customs service will be revolutionized beginning July 1. As one of his last acts President Taft today sent a message to Congress announcing the redistricting of the service. The existing 165 districts will be reduced to forty-nine, formed largely along State lines, and 116 collectors of customs will be abolished. Several ports of entry and a number of subports will be abandoned. Congress has stipulated that the new plan must reduce the cost of the customs service to $10,150,000, or a saving of $700,000, as compared with the current fiscal year. Some Treasury officials claim that the plan adopted by the President will not meet that condition.

LONG HAUL

Tobacco Arrived Here From Muhlenburg Tuesday.

Five wagons loaded with tobacco, each wagon drawn by four mules, arrived here Tuesday at about 6 o'clock p. m. They were standing near the court house when night came on, waiting for one of the men to find a place where the tobacco would be protected and the mules cared for. It was with great difficulty that this could be done, as the influx of tobacco continues so great that the stable men are crowded every day. As to the delivery by county farmers they may be said to be about through but there are so many farmers from other sections bringing their crops here that the quantity now in the city may be said to be unprecedented. The five wagon loads above spoken of came from Muhlenburg county, near Greenville, about 35 miles distant.

LECTURES

This Week and Next at the School Buildings.

Mr. K. H. Basmajian, formerly of Constantinople, now of Atlanta, who has been several days in our city addressing the students of our public schools, will deliver several lectures this week in the afternoons, at 1:30 o'clock. Yesterday afternoon he spoke at Clay Street School. This afternoon he will speak at Virginia Street School; Friday afternoon at the High School, and next Monday afternoon at the West Side School.

The lectures are on educational lines. They will be illustrated by songs, curios, musical instruments and native costumes. Though the lectures are especially for the students, the patrons of the schools are welcome.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Baby Mine."

"Baby Mine," the international success, right out of Boston with its eight weeks' engagement at the Majestic Theatre, comes to Holland's Opera House, Tuesday March 11, under the direction of William A. Brady, Ltd. It has a record of one solid year at Daly's Theatre, New

SUIT FILED

By Government Against Adding Machine Co.

Detroit, Mich., March 4.—A civil anti-trust suit filed here today by order of the Attorney General Wickesham, charging the Burroughs Adding Machine Company with monopolizing interstate and foreign trade in adding machines and appliances, was followed immediately by the entry of an agreed decree terminating alleged unfair practices to stifle competition.

The $5,500,000 company was ordered to instruct its agents in writing to desist from interference with competitors, and is forbidden to acquire a controlling interest in any competing concern without the consent of the court.

York, and is now in its second year in London, at the Criterion Theatre, with every indication of remaining there permanently. "Baby Mine" will also be produced in Paris, Berlin, Vienna, St. Petersburg, Australia, South America and Japan, thus putting a girdle of laughter around the world. One of the elements of success of "Baby Mine" is the heartiness with which it is presented by the excellent company. Laughter is never forced, and is never courted by an approach to vulgarity. The company seems to enter completely into the fun of the thing and to enjoy it as much as the audience.—Advertisement.

Deal Closed.

The deed of the Edwards place, on Main street, was yesterday signed and acknowledged and ordered to record, whereby, for one dollar in hand paid and other valuable consideration, E. D. Jones became the owner of the property named.

GOOD GUESS.

Church—I see they say that bad ties are responsible for a great many of the railroad wrecks.

Gotham—Yes; and of the matrimonial wrecks, too, I reckon.

AN ADEPT.

Bacon—Does he know how to handle a wheelbarrow?

Egbert—Does he? Why, he's he's lost every election but he ever made!

GOOD REASON.

"I'd think a man would be afraid to start out in India to hunt the man-eating tiger."

"Why?"

"Because he might find it."

NATURAL FATE.

"Did you see where over a hundred climbers were killed ascending the Alps?"

"Naturally. That is about the easiest job to fall down on."

DARK SECRET.

"I shall probably go through life with one ambition ungratified."

"And that is?"

"To know what the Chinaman really writes on my laundry ticket."

WILL BE COMPANIONS.

Dr. Samuel Wilson, pastor First Congregational church, Washington, is a cousin of President-elect Thomas Woodrow Wilson.

AGED FATHER.

William Castlebury of Bartlesville, Okla., aged ninety, is celebrating the birth of a baby daughter. Mrs. Castlebury is thirty-six.

Quick Business Transaction.

While a flock of sheep was being driven along the Glasgow and Carlisle road, near the town of Lockerbie, Scotland, the other day, a motor ran into it, killing three. The motorist at once drew up, inquired as to the cost of the sheep, paid for them, bade the shepherd "Good-day," and went on his way, the whole affair being the work of a few minutes.

African Dwarf Elephants.

An English official in Uganda claims to have seen a herd of dwarf elephants, the existence of which has often been affirmed by natives. When recently seen the company consisted of from 30 to 40 individual elephants meandering in solitary fashion over a plain. The observer was most astonished at the weak defenses offered by their bodies. None of them had a tusk of more than ten kilograms in weight. A dead member of the flock was afterward found, the tusk of which weighed but eight kilograms.

UNSWEET USES OF ADVERSITY

Foolish Notion That Best Work is Done Under Unhappy Conditions is Dying Out.

Dickens assailed in "David Copperfield" the "diabolical notion" that persons can do their best work when oppressed by unhappy conditions. He made his generality on facts particularly applying to children—to one child, David Copperfield, as a symbol.

Out of conditions that hold childhood and manhood and womanhood to fear and "chill penury," some child of the sweatshops emerges to a powerful or useful life. And there are those who pervert the old truth that a free, pioneer struggle with nature makes a hardy stock. And they say that the boy's or girl's success is due to his adversity! Forgetting the many others that succumb. Not realizing that the child won in spite of wretchedness and misery, or that, if the wretchedness was necessary to his success, then his success was a thousand times too dearly purchased.

That "diabolical notion" is dying. We are not so many of us now afraid of "pampering the race with luxury," or of "supporting the unfit" by seeing to it that all the race has a decent living and that conditions which produce the unfit shall cease to disgrace us.—Kansas City Times.

POPULAR ATTRACTION

"Yes, she's lecturing against woman suffrage."

"But that's an unpopular side to take in this neighborhood."

"Yes, but she draws tremendous crowds everywhere."

"By her arguments?"

"No, her clothes."

NOT AN EXTENDED MENU.

An eastern man who was on a business trip through the west stopped at the small hotel in a country town one day. He entered the dining room and was shown to a table by a waiter.

"Will you have some pork and beans, sir?" asked the waiter as he brought the customary glass of water.

"No, I don't care for them," answered the man. "I never eat pork and beans."

"Dinner is over, then, sir," said the waiter, as he moved away.—Youth's Companion.

POOR "GELL" DIDN'T KNOW.

At the Knickerbocker theater a really unsophisticated chorus girl has been discovered. She is one of the models in "Oh! Oh! Delphine."

Last night the stage manager invited her to dinner.

"Oh, I can't accept," she said, "people might misunderstand!"

"No, they wouldn't," persisted the manager. "They know me too well, and you are like Caesar's wife."

"Who is she?" asked the chorus girl. "Does she belong to this company?"—New York Telegram.

PARALLEL.

Mr. Merry—Jack Jones, I am told, laughed while he was being married.

Mr. Grouch—Well, haven't men been known to joke on the scaffold?

ILLUSTRATION.

"Pa, what does a vampire do to a man?"

"Watch your mother, my son, the next time I come home on pay day."

SHOULD KNOW BETTER.

"I don't know what should be done with Jobbles."

"What's wrong with Jobbles?"

"He still says 'parcels post.'"

HE'S MISSING.

"A man should have self-respect."

"Quite true, but where is the man who can say, 'I'm self-respect' and here self-respect begins?"

Take Off Your Hat TO The Myers

In the beginning of the season for spraying orchards and white-washing out-buildings, fences, etc., we wish to call your attention to the Myers Spray Pump. One of the special features of this pump is a clamping device, by means of which it is attached to the top of the barrel. The cylinder is made of a solid brass tube with closed end. It is adapted to pumping any kind of mixture, hot or cold, and it surpasses anything we know of for white-washing. Demonstrations have been made in nearly every community proving that spraying is profitable with all orchards and many gardens. Why not try it to your own satisfaction?

We carry three sizes of these pumps in stock.

$3.75, $10.00 and $15.00

Complete with extension rod and nozzles.

We also have in stock Lime Sulphur Solution and arsenate of lead. The best results are obtained by spraying with Lime Sulphur Solution while the trees are in a dormant state.
